NMS PARTNERS:

WHAT IS POSSIBLE

With the right scanning solution there is always an efficient way to capture documents, automate data entry and have information stored on-line for document management solutions. By applying the right combination of technologies and services, any organization can convert any amount of paperwork into electronic information.

NMS Imaging sells world-class, best-of-breed hardware and software from companies such as Kodak, ReadSoft, A2iA and Kofax. We employ our own eFlow Capture solutions to integrate these technologies with data from your existing data-processing systems and fully utilize existing resources to eliminate manual document indexing. From the smallest to the largest problems, we have a solution to meet your needs.

HOW IT WORKS

Getting an image from a document scanner is the obvious function of a scanning solution. However, in the big picture this is the simplest and most basic function of a solid scanning solution. Aside from providing the software interface to drive a document scanner, the main function of a scanning solution is to get information converted from paper into data, then to put that information to work in your business environment.

Through working with a variety of technologies, we can easily identify the right scanning solution to clean-up a document image and make it more legible using such technologies as: de-speckle, de-skew, cropping, rotation, shade-drop-out, contrast enhancement, and accurate color renditioning.

From a high quality image, the right solution will extract information from scanned paper documents by applying technologies like Forms Recognition, OCR, ICR, Bar-Code-Reading, and Mark Sense. That solution will also join existing data from your processing systems with extracted data from the scanned document image, to automate the indexing and storage process.
